

Checklist: Adjusting your manuscript for your book project

- No indications of the thesis
The specialized book should not contain any indications to your thesis (e.g. “Diploma Thesis”, “Bachelor Thesis”). Please adjust your manuscript and replace these terms (e.g. with “Book”, “Study”, “Research”).
- Accepted file formats
Ideally, we need your manuscript as one single file in MS WORD format. If you did not write your study in MS WORD, please save your work in DOC format or in RTF format. We also accept your manuscript in PDF format, but in that case you have to make sure the file is ready to print.
- Book format
The paper size of the document should be A4 (21x29,7 cm), if possible. Please use the same margin on the left and right side of each page (best between 2–3 cm, but not less than 1,5 cm). The page numbers should be centered and positioned at the bottom of the page.
- Typeface
If possible, please use easy-to-read, conventional fonts like Times New Roman, Arial, Calibri or Garamond. If you submit your manuscript in PDF format, please ensure to have all fonts in your file embedded.
- Font size
For the printed textbook, we usually downscale your master from DIN A4 to 22x15,5 cm. Therefore, please choose a large enough type size for your text (not less than 12 points for the main text). The main text should be justified. The type size used in tables and illustrations should not be smaller than 10 points.
- Table of contents/list of figures/list of tables
Please ensure that the indices accord with the page numbers and headings in the text and refresh them, if necessary. We strongly recommend you to apply an automatic table of contents and list of figures/tables in MS Word to ensure correct reference.
- Page Breaks
Headlines should not be placed on the last line of a page. Please avoid starting a new page with the last few words or last line of a paragraph. Please avoid ending a page with the first few words or first line of a paragraph as well. Programs like MS Word, Open Office or Libre usually offer a Widow/Orphan control option.
- Graphics
Higher resolution means better quality: please use pictures with 300 dpi. Use 1200 dpi for line drawings. For charts und diagramms, please use gray levels instead of colours, if possible. Alternatively, you could fill the coloured areas with patterns or cross-hatching. If your manuscript includes colour pages, the publisher decides whether a colour print is required or whether the content can be understood by means of a black and white print as well.
- Indications of sources
Due to legal reasons, all figures and tables that are not provided by yourself, but have been taken from another source, have to be provided with correspondent reference to their source.

- Right of quotation

All figures and citations that have been taken from another source have to be dealt with in the text. If they serve a mere illustrative purpose, they have to be removed from the manuscript.

- Agreement of interviewees, companies etc.

Due to legal reasons, for any company information, interviews, testing results, surveys etc. in the work that have not been published yet, you have to obtain the corresponding permission from the respective copyright-holders. As an alternative, you may anonymize those passages.

- Agreement of authors

If the study was written of several authors, we need the names and consent of all involved authors for a publication, due to legal reasons. A written confirmation of all authors by e-mail is sufficient in this respect. You can simply forward the e-mails of your co-authors to info@anchor-publishing.com.

- Uniformity

Please make sure to use uniform fonts throughout your text. For example, all headings should be set in the same font type. All main text should be set in a uniform font type as well. The same goes for spacing and margins which should be set in a uniform way. We strongly recommend a 1.5 times line spacing.

- Accuracy

Since we don't offer proof-reading as part of a publication, it is mandatory that the manuscript is free of excessive typing, spelling and/or grammar mistakes and that the pagination and numbering of indices, figures, tables and chapters is correct. Please make sure you submit the final version of your manuscript to us. Before submitting your final manuscript to us, you can still modify or correct your text. Once the publication has been completed successfully, no further modifications can be made.

Anchor Academic Publishing reserves the right to reject manuscripts that don't correspond to the details of this formatting guideline.
